Thrombosis and infarction examples in veterinary medicine

Answers

Q1 What is a likely location of the primary lesion that has given rise to such emboli?

A1 The primary lesion is likely to be on the left atrio-ventricular valves.

Q2 What other organs have ‘end arteries’ and might also show infarction in such cases?

A2 Other organs with end arteries include: spleen and skin - and also intestines, liver, heart and brain.